OF LOCAL INTEREST

WILL MEET TODAY — The committee of sixteen will hold another meeting today at which it is expected the final report of its months' labor will be approved.

THE BANKERS CONVENTION — A number of Phoenix bankers left this morning for Prescott there to attend the annual session of the Arizona Bankers association. In the party were Will Jones, Lloyd Christy, M. C. McDowell, H. J. McClung and W. J. Kingsbury of Tempe.

COMING ATTRACTIONS — Mrs. May Porter and O. Butterfield, pianist and impersonator, have just returned from a trip to Mesa, where they assisted the Fox trio in a vaudeville entertainment. Their next engagement will be under canvas during fair week at the fair grounds.

SPOKE TO THE SCHOOL — Dr. A. R. MacLean gave a fifteen minute talk to the students of the Lamson Business College yesterday. He chose for his topic, "Thorough Preparation," and was listened to with evident interest. The advanced class in shorthand took down his speech for future reference.

A DRUNKEN QUARTETTE — Judge Johnstone yesterday sentenced four Mexicans to serve seven days each in the county jail for conducting themselves in a drunken and boisterous manner. They were all arrested Thursday night and were Jose Cavall, Jesus Sandoval, Ricardo Soto and Jose Sieras.

RETURNED FOR THE WINTER — Mrs. George H. Cook arrived in the city this morning from Prescott and Mr. Cook will follow her in a few days.

days. The Cooks will probably remain in Phoenix during the winter, they having in past years made their home here in the winter and Prescott in the summer.

A PRESCOTT VISITOR — Barney Smith, one of the proprietors of the Palace in Prescott, and also one of the members of the board of supervisors, spent yesterday in the city. He said he didn't have to come, but he did come just for the fun of watching the supreme court proceedings in respect of the mine tax cases in which he is greatly interested as a supervisor. Mr. Smith says Prescott is taking on new life and looks forward to a season of continuous prosperity.

OHIO VISITORS — Mrs. Emily Le Blond and Mr. Hubert Fanger, both of Celina, Ohio, are in the city for the winter. They are both friends of the family of A. L. Doron. Mr. and Mrs. George Snearly, also friends of the Doron family, spent a few days here and then went on to California on a tour of inspection. If they do not find a place that suits them better, and of course they can not, they will return here and make Phoenix their home. They are from Hamilton, Ontario, Canada.

THE COUNTRY CLUB — Mrs. J. C. Adams, Mrs. W. Kingsbury and Mrs. R. W. Craig will this afternoon be the hostesses at the Country club tea.

RAY MINE OWNERS — J. G. Gordon of London, England, and C. M. Gordon and wife of Kelvin spent yesterday in the city and left last night for San Antonio, Texas. The gentlemen are interested in the Ray Mines company near Kelvin. At present the future plans of the company are just in their making and C. M. Gordon the manager was not in a position to give an outline of what they include. His trip to San Antonio is on private business and J. C. Gordon is returning to England.

HEIR TO THE HOORAH — The Omaha Bee in a recent criticism of "The Heir to the Hoorah," the play in which Ernest Lamson is this year playing an important part, pays him a nice compliment. The criticism is quite a lengthy one, describing both the bill and the actors. A line concerning the bill is as follows: "It is clean, it is crisp, it doesn't depend on horseplay for its fun and it is as full of fun as a Christmas pudding is of plums and indignation." Regarding Mr. Lamson the Bee says: "But it is to Ernest Lamson the comedy of the piece owes its life. As Dave Lacy, the brother of Joseph, and one-third owner in the Hoorah, he comes on with a bit of western self-assertiveness and the good natured ways of a man who is rich and honest and wants to have a good time and see everybody else in the same fix. Dave is outspoken, too, and some of his comment is decidedly pointed."

THE POULTRY SHOW — C. B. Wood, who has charge of the poultry department of the fair, says he is hoping for a fine display of fowls. He announces that the exhibition room will be fitted with coops, all alike and conveniently arranged so those who bring birds for display need not waste their time and money making fancy coops. Just put the chickens in any kind of a cage and bring them to the fair, where they will be transferred to the regular exhibition coops, and will also be carefully fed, watered and looked after during the week. There is no entry charge and the only expense the exhibitor need be put to is the delivery of the fowls at the fair grounds. There are lots of fine chickens in the territory and there should be a magnificent display. Chicken fanciers should not be backward in coming forward, but bring the best they have and help make a showing anyway.

A MODERN JOKE — Mr. Maraman, of the post-office news stand, says he is beginning to think the Egyptian coin given him by a Mexican and which excited local antiquarians to some extent, is a modern joke rather than an ancient relic. The coin seems to be a duplicate of the coins attached to the fifty-cent Egyptian watch fobs so often worn by the gentlemen of these days. Most of them are of a silver color, however, while his is brass, but there is no doubt that they have been made of various metals. As mentioned some time ago, it is one of those things that might or might not possess value, and it seems that it turns out to be the latter. The Mexican who gave him the coin said it came from an old ruin about seventy-five miles from here. He had no reason for lying to Mr. Maraman, but when a Mexican wants to lie he does not need a reason for doing it. He probably told that story just for fun.

SENATOR W. A. CLARK AGAINST JOINTURE

His Denial of an Interview by the Albuquerque Citizen.

The methods pursued by the joint statehood papers of New Mexico is illustrated in a pretended interview by the Albuquerque Citizen with United States Senator W. A. Clark who lately passed through Albuquerque on his way to Jerome and Clarksville. The senator was made to express himself in favor of jointure. This was surprising by reason of the fact that the senator had opposed the Hamilton bill in congress and that throughout the struggle he had been the consistent friend of this territory.

A representative of The Republican the other day met Senator Clark in the northern part of the territory and asked him about the interview. He vigorously denied the entire statement of the Citizen as absolutely false and malicious in every particular. He said he had not been interviewed by a reporter for that paper and that during his stay in Albuquerque he had not seen a reporter for any paper. He had had no conversation there with anybody on the subject of joint statehood.

He added that the interview misrepresented any views on the subject if he should have expressed any. He said that he was as unalterably opposed to joint statehood now as he had ever been and that he would oppose any bill for jointure that might be forced in the senate.
